Things to do

1 Nevis Cable Cars

UK's only mountain cablecar system, with 80 six-seater cabins transporting visitors 650 metres in 15 minutes whilst offering panoramic views of Ben Nevis and the Highlands.

2 Glencoe Visitor Centre

An eco-friendly hub located in a woodland glade offering interactive exhibitions on the glen's history including the 1692 massacre.

3 Ben Nevis Distillery

Sitting at the base of Scotland's highest mountain and producing 2 million litres of robust, waxy old-school Highland single malt.

4 Glencoe Landrover Safari

Experience off-road terrain and stunning photography opportunities led by rangers who offer immersive and informative tours.

5 White Water Rafting

Exhilarating, high-adrenaline trips through dramatic scenery, on the Rivers Etive or Coe featuring varied rapids and peak excitement during snowmelt or after rain.

6 Cruise Loch Linnhe

2 hour scenic boat trips, showcasing stunning views of Ben Nevis, the Corpach Shipwreck and local wildlife, including seals and eagles.

7 Ice Climbing and Mountain Activity Centre

Home to the largest ice climbing wall in the world; enjoy a variety of indoor and outdoor options and summer and winter climbing.

8 Neptunes Staircase

A spectacular staircase flight of 8 locks on the Caledonian Canal. Built in the early 1800's, it remains a premier engineering feat lifting boats 20 metres over a quarter-mile.

9 Glencoe

Known as the Outdoor Capital of the UK, this picturesque village located at the foot of the dramatic Glen Coe Valley acts as a primary base for outdoor enthusiasts.

Walk

Take the forest walk to the spectacular Inchree Waterfalls, where you can see red squirrels.

There are many local routes within easy reach of the site. If you plan to climb Ben Nevis, allow approximately 7 hours.

Cycle

Good road/off road mountain bike routes within 15 miles of site. The National Cycle Network route is 78: Oban to Fort William.

There are a huge network of paths and tracks for walking, dog-exercising, trail-running and mountain-biking at the Glen Righ Forest Trails.
